

Dream Job Alert: Croatia travel specialist are looking to hire a taste tester for their new food and wine cruise

If sailing around the Croatian coastline eating food and drinking wine while getting paid sounds like your dream job, then you're in luck!

Specialist Croatia travel company, Cruise Croatia, are currently hiring a Taste Tester to hop aboard one of their brand new gourmet cruises completely free, trying out all of the food and wine experiences throughout the tour and offering their all-important feedback.

The exclusive opportunity pays £500 and will involve the Taste Tester heading out on Cruise Croatia's 7-night Food and Wine Cruise departing in October 2020.

The luxury small-ship cruise travels from the medieval city of Split to the ancient walled city of Dubrovnik, taking in the Croatian coastline and Dalmatian islands along the way.

The tour includes sampling local wines at the traditional wineries located across Vis, Hvar and Korcula, as well as feasting on delicious homemade Croatian meals. Other excursions include a unique oyster farm visit, where you will be able try out the fresh local produce.

The cruise also includes on-board wine lectures, from the wine expert Cruise Director, who can share fascinating facts about local Croatian wines and wine tasting as a whole.

Sumptuous breakfasts and a 4-course lunch served with wine, are also available aboard the ship.

Cruise Croatia are looking for a keen foodie and wine lover, who knows their cabernet from their chardonnay and who can provide detailed reviews and feedback on the gourmet food options provide aboard the ship and throughout the tour's various food excursions.

If this opportunity has got your taste buds tingling and you can apply by heading over to the Cruise Croatia website and filling out the short application stating why you're the best foodie for the job.

Apply here >

-Ends-

For further media information contact Catriona McGale
(Catriona@justtravelpr.co.uk)